Nothing more like a Fool than a drunken Man.
Poor Richard.

TIS an old Remark, that Vice always endeavours to assume the Appearance of Virtue: Thus Covetousness calls itself Prudence; Prodigality would be thought Generosity; and so of others. This perhaps arises hence, that Mankind naturally and universally approve Virtue in their hearts, and detest Vice; and therefore, whenever thro' Temptation they fall into a Practice of the latter, they would if possible conceal it from themselves as well as others, under some other Name than that which properly belongs to it.

But DRUNKENNESS is a very unfortunate Vice in this respect. It bears no kind of Similitude with any sort of Virtue, from which it might possibly borrow a Name; and is therefore reduc'd to the wretched Necessity of being express'd by distant round-about Phrases, and of perpetually varying those Phrases, as often as they come to be well understood to signify plainly that A MAN IS DRUNK.

Tho' every one may possibly recollect a Dozen at least of the Expressions us'd on this Occasion, yet I think no one who has not much frequented Taverns would imagine the number of them so great as it really is. It may therefore surprize as well as divert the sober Reader, to have the Sight of a new Piece, lately communicated to me, entituled

The Phrases in this Dictionary are not (like most of our Terms of Art) borrow'd from Foreign Languages, neither are they collected from the Writings of the Learned in our own, but gather'd wholly from the modern Tavern-Conversation of Tiplers. I do not doubt but that there are many more in use; and I was even tempted to add a new one my self under the Letter B, to wit, Brutify'd: But upon Consideration, I fear'd being guilty of Injustice to the Brute Creation, if I represented Drunkenness as a beastly Vice, since 'tis well-known, that the Brutes are in general a very sober sort of People.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the General Assembly of the Province, stands adjourned to Tuesday the Sixteenth Day of May Instant: AND whereas the Season of the Year, requires a Recess from Business, the most weighty and arduous Affairs being brought to a Conclusion. I have therefore thought fit by and with the Advice and Consent of His Majesty's Honourable Council, to prorogue the said General Assembly to Thursday the Sixteenth Day of June next, and the said General Assembly is hereby prorogued accordingly.

JOHN HAMMERTON. Secr.

L O N D O N, Febr. 10.

They write from Vienna, that several Wagers are laid there, that Peace will be concluded between the Emperor and the Porte in six Weeks: Which is pretty surprizing, considering that the Baron de Bartenstein, Imperial Secretary of State, has already drawn up a Declaration of War; and that every Circumstance seems to denounce a speedy Rupture.

We hear that Brigadier General Hargrave, who is appointed Governor of Minorca, in the Room of Brigadier General Kane, will set out for that Island the Beginning of March next.

At a Board of Trustees, this Week, for settling the Colony of Georgia, tho' they were entirely at Peace and every thing perfectly quiet, they went into a Consideration how to complain to the King and Council against their Neighbours of South-Carolina, relating to their Behaviour to the People of the Georgian Province, and a Representation was drawn up and agreed to. Trade is like to flourish there, there having been several Ships loaded this Year from Georgia.

We hear by the Grampus Sloop from Lisbon, that Four Men of War of Sir John Norris's Squadron were shortly to sail thence for the West-Indies.
